

Nevada 2-1-1

Nevada 2-1-1 has been working to provide the best information and referral service throughout the state of Nevada. We will connect all individuals, families, and providers to essential health and human services information and resources.

Nevada 2-1-1, serving more than 2.8 million residents, will provide resources for services such as rental and utility assistance, food pantries and emergency shelter listings. In addition to specific categories, we will also serve special targeted populations including veterans, seniors, infants and children, and youth and young adult.

If you have not visited our web page – NEVADA211.org – please do so to learn all that is offered. Simply dial 2-1-1 from any phone, access us via our website at www.nevada211.org, or text us at TXT211 or 898211. We are here to serve you and want to offer this monthly newsletter for your benefit.

Nevada Early Intervention Services

Because all babies are different, they rarely do the same thing at exactly the same age. As a result, it's not unusual for families to have questions or concerns about their child's development. They may wonder; Why isn't my son sitting up? Why isn't my daughter crawling? Why doesn't my son talk like other children his age?

Nevada Early Intervention Services' programs provide community-based services, such as speech therapy, physical therapy, among others, for all Nevada's infants and toddlers (eligible for Early Intervention services), and their families. Early intervention focuses on helping eligible babies and toddlers learn the basic and brand-new skills that typically develop during the first three years of life.

If parents are concerned about their child's development, the first step is to have their child referred for evaluation, which looks at his or her basic skills. There is no cost! Parents or family members can refer the child directly or they can have a child's physician or another professional make the referral for them.
